ABSTRACT

A method of creating a multi-layered monolithic circuit structure wherein individual layers of standard alumina thick film ceramic substrate and the resistors, 5 inductors, capacitors, and other circuit componentry printed thereon are fired, and the circuit componentry trimmed or otherwise adjusted to achieve a desired degree of precision prior to combining the layers with a thick film glass bonding agent to form the monolithic structure.